HERMAN'S LECTURE WELL RECEIVED

In place of the regular bi-monthly gathering of the Dramatic Social Club, a public meeting was held in the Community Hall Monday evening.

Former Publisher at Carmangay Dies

A. E. Quayle, one time publisher of the Carmangay Star, died this week in Colorado Springs, Colo., at the Union Printers' Home. He lived in Southern Alberta for 30 years and was the brother of T. W. Quayle of Ottawa, news editor of the Lethbridge Herald from 1911 to 1913. Burial will be made in the Union Printers' plot in the Union Cemetery, Calgary.

He was 62 years of age and was born at Paisley, Bruce county, Ontario, where he learned the printing trade. After some years in Toronto, he came to Carmangay in 1911, starting the Carmangay Sun which he conducted for several years, then moved to Calgary in 1920. He worked at the Western Printing and Lithographing Company, Calgary, and for A. E. Littleberg, and later for the Calgary Herald.

He was a charter member of Carmangay Lodge A.F. and A.M., and later a member of Renfrew A.F. and A.M. and the Shrine. He was also a member of International Typographical Union, having been president of the Calgary local at one time. —Lethbridge Herald.

The home of Mrs. P. Gatenby was the scene of a delightful party last Saturday evening, when Miss Margaret Gatenby and Miss Evelyn Sletto entertained a number of young people in celebration of their birthdays, which both occur this week. Games were enjoyed by the young people and following delicious refreshments, Miss Dorothy Hummel, on behalf of the assembled guests, presented Miss Gatenby and Miss Sletto each with a lovely vanity set.

Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett has purchased a home in Surrey, England, to which he expects to move in a few weeks, probably before Christmas. It is possible that he may not occupy his seat in the House of Commons during the coming session.

Transient Youth Problem Again

In a recent issue of this column attention was drawn to the plight of that sizeable army of young men wandering up and down the country in vain search for work and, perhaps, in a minority of cases, hunting for relief, when the situation was referred to as a national disgrace, coupled with the suggestion that some provision should be made to give them work and wages.

It was pointed out that there is plenty of work that could be done with profit to the nation and the taxpayers and, in effect, that all that was needed was to connect these transient jobless men with this work.

Since that time these evasive efforts have found confirmation in an article in the November 12 issue of Toronto Saturday Night written by A. J. Elliott, who not only points out the necessity of providing work for these wanderers instead of allowing them to be made a stockpile between the municipalities and the senior government, but outlines in some detail the work to which they might well be put and the methods that should be adopted in carrying out the plan.

Since Mr. Elliott is the Superintendent of the Toronto Men's Hostel and has had much experience in social work in the United States and Canada his suggestions are not only interesting but carry with them the weight of experience and authority.

Mr. Elliott adopts the viewpoint that the problem instead of being insoluble has a relatively simple answer but if it is to be successful "our theory must be changed from the opinion that the federal government is attempting to control a national liability to the conviction that we are actively engaged in conserving a national asset."

In making this statement it would appear that Mr. Elliott is reaching down to the roots of the problem, for, if these men were regarded as a national asset to be conserved, as they undoubtedly are, it would not be very long before the demand that something be done to give them their rightful place in the economic life of the country, or at least a chance for it, would be sufficiently vociferous to bring forth relief.

For Unskilled Labor

As was stated before in this column there is plenty of work that can be done with advantage and Mr. Elliott not only confirms this statement in a general way but points out specifically some of the projects that might well be undertaken when he says:

"Grandiose schemes such as the construction of huge public buildings or super-highways demand large numbers of skilled artisans and trained engineers. The country has not a sufficient number of these to fulfill its normal requirements; and the result is merely to put a premium on the services of such workers."

"But the little jobs, such as changing level crossings to grade crossings, providing passable country roads, eliminating the hazards of pedestrians on highways by constructing footpaths; these, as well as such big jobs as reforestation, require a minimum of skilled workmen and a maximum of laborers. From all of them the general public would derive as much benefit in the long run as the unemployed transients who would be directly assisted thereby."

Mr. Elliott suggests that the men be housed in comfortable and attractive camps, avoiding the mistakes of "our last terrible camp experiment", adding the important warning that the men should not be kept in such camps too long but that efforts be made to provide them with a definite program of education and as soon as possible graduate them into permanent work through the employment bureaus scattered across the Dominion. In other words, Mr. Elliott asks for a definitely co-ordinated program of temporary work, education and permanent employment and opportunity for re-establishment as soon as such may be available.

Effect On Morale

While all of this is sound and sound, not the least interesting feature of Mr. Elliott's plan is his recommendation as to remuneration. Pointing out that these men who have lost their municipal rights are offering of families and relatives who cannot afford to keep them, Mr. Elliott urges that they be paid, while engaged in such public projects, a minimum wage of thirty dollars a month and keep, of which five dollars is to be retained by the men and the balance forwarded to the nearest of kin.

Apart altogether from the economic effect of partially or wholly lifting the relief burden from the taxpayers on the family's account such disposition of a substantial percentage of the wages would have a marked effect on the family's morale "if their income was the earned wages of one of their number, instead of a handout."

"As well as the chance to conserve its manpower and lighten the burden of relief that now falls so onerously on municipal taxpayers, not to mention the restoration of morale and self-respect to innumerable borderline and relief-seeking families the nation has still another opportunity to benefit from the policy of work for wages," says Mr. Elliott, "and that is the opportunity to provide education facilities to a group of its citizens who would benefit from such a program and who would eagerly avail themselves of it."

Such a program as that outlined by Mr. Elliott will strike a responsive chord in a good many hearts and will be approved not only by taxpayers but parents and relatives who have seen their young men far from the main body of conquering the unemployment ogre and who are now being battered about from pillar to post, with hope dwindling the longer this problem remains ineffectively tackled.

Troubles Increasing

Man Without Country Is Now Man Without A Ship

John Dolanuk, the "man without a country," is also a man without a ship.

For the United States liner President Roosevelt sailing for Europe without him, refusing to recognize a deportation order issued by the U.S. department of labor.

Dolanuk rode 17,000 miles on the ship's lines last year as an uninvited guest. His officials refused to accept him for deportation on the grounds it was physically impossible to land him in another country.

Dolanuk was born in Austrian territory later ceded to Rumania. Immigration officials said he had entered both Canada and the United States illegally, gone to Spain as a volunteer with the government forces, and later stowed away again for the United States.

Courts have tried vainly to straighten out the tangle of his national status. Great Britain, France, Germany, Rumania—among other countries—have refused him entry.

Alberta Oil Possibilities

Should Be In Increasing Demand By British Empire

Alberta oil should be in increasing demand by the British Empire because of its high gasoline content. A. B. Brown, Jr., of Calgary, told the Canadian Institute of Mining and Metallurgy convention at Vancouver.

Turner Valley, producing more crude than the available market requires, looks to an abundant supply of exports from the United States and expansion of the domestic market. The lower freight rates will increase share of the British market overseas, he said.

Brown said the British Empire needs only about five per cent. of its crude oil requirements. He discounted the feasibility of a pipeline west to the Pacific coast.

Brown expressed belief that as soon as potential production justified a large enough flow of oil, needed development adjustment of railway freight rates would follow.

Lincoln Was Inventor

Application For Patent For Pontoon Found Among Old Papers

New York has just found an old note dating back to the middle of the last century. Experts opened it with care, and found inside a number of models and papers. Some of the papers were signed "A. Lincoln, Springfield, Illinois." Investigation revealed that they had been written by the great President. Abraham Lincoln himself, and were, in fact, proof of the statesman's leisure time hobby of invention. Among the contents of the note was an application for patent to patent a pontoon, which, filled with compressed air, would lift vessels "over bars" through shallow water without discharging their cargo.

Milk And Lemonade

Preferred By British Soldiers In India To Liqueur

Reginald Kipling, understanding the modern British soldier in India prefers milk and lemonade to sterner stuff. Authorities attribute a sharp decrease in sunstroke and heat exhaustion to this preference, but the number of hospital admissions is still high. Of the 50,000 British troops in India, 30,000 annually are admitted to hospital, twice the ratio for troops serving at home. For the 120,000 native soldiers the ratio is 300 per 1,000.

Thinking Is Power

Knowledge No Good Without It States Sir Frederick Banting

Sir Frederick Banting, co-discoverer of insulin and Professor of Medical Research at the University of Toronto, told students of Dalhousie University Medical School in Halifax: "Knowledge alone is not power, he said, 'it is thinking that is power. There is a danger of too little thinking and too much work.' Research, he said, is the most valuable thing in man's research. Ideas come only to the man who asks himself why, and answers the question for himself."

Under The Evening Lamp

People Used To Study At Home During The Winter

The Port Arthur News-Chronicle says the long winter evening was once a time when people would settle down in their living rooms and enter on prolonged courses of study. They drew out big leaved books from some library or bookcase and were determined that the winter should not pass without some added culture. Or they borrowed some of the good old-fashioned 1,000-page novels, and set themselves down to prolonged enjoyment of these fascinating but wooty old tomes.

Today people are no longer satisfied to settle down around the fire-side. Modern life keeps us going so fast that we have forgotten how to say "whoa." If there isn't something to do almost every night, the people say they can't stand the boredom.

But the long winter evening under the living room lamp produced a quiet mind for next day's work, and people learned many things they needed to know.

Tribute To Baling Wire

Sens To Be Very Useful In Cases Of Emergency

It's a tribute that more attention has not been given to the physics of baling wire. Best sellers have been written about lesser subjects. Without baling wire, how could the farmer have got along so well as he has?

Drama Festivals

Amateur Theatrical Groups Are Now

During The Winter Amateur theatrical groups in cities and towns across Canada have started rehearsing plays to be presented at regional festivals preceding the Dominion drama festival in London, Ont., next April.

Festival governors are considering appointment of an adjudicator for the regional competitions but have not yet made a choice. Malcolm Morley, English playwright and actor, did the work last year.

Preliminary competitions will start early in January and conclude in mid-March. The season will open in Kentville with the productions from Nova Scotia on Jan. 6 and 10. Prince Edward Island entries will be staged in Charlottetown Jan. 12-13 and the New Brunswick players will hold their festival in Saint John Jan. 16-18.

Dates of western regional festivals have been set for Saskatchewan Feb. 8-11 in Regina; British Columbia, Feb. 15-18 in Victoria; and Alberta, Feb. 22-25 at Edmonton.

Quick Relief for DEEP CRASPY COUGHS (DUE TO COLDS)

If that cold has caused throat or bronchial irritation, just a small mug of Vicks VapoRub in a bowl of boiling water. Let the steam rise up through the nostrils for a few minutes. As these vapors work their way down through the irritated air-passages, they loosen the phlegm and ease the cough. The relief that a few drops of Vicks VapoRub will bring you will be worth the cost.

THE COMING OF OUR
KING AND QUEEN

The visit of Their Majesties, our King and Queen, to Canada, scheduled to take place in May 1939 is of far more import, and may be made to exert a more powerful influence on our National life than any event of recent times if we but make the most of it.

Symbolizing, as His Majesty does, the spirit of those ideals that characterize free peoples the world over, His is the one personality to whom Canadians, regardless of race, politics, tongue, or creed, may pay their homage. His is the one figure about whom all Britishers may rally particularly in this, a time of trouble and confusion.

So, while we inevitably would all delight in welcoming Their Majesties, let us not fail to make the occasion serve its fundamental purpose—to wipe away those petty differences that now divide us, and to demonstrate in the display of our devotion to the Crown, that Canadians from Coast to Coast are a united and inseparable people; that in the person of His Majesty we have a common tie that not only binds us to each other but to our British brethren the world over.

We should not let the occasion pass with a but a colourful and heartfelt welcome. We should make of it a time of spiritual awakening, a time for impressing on the many, just what the office of British Kingship has come to symbolize.

It is quite obvious that Their Majesties will be able to visit but few points in the West, but we suggest, that in the province should be observed by spiritual and patriotic exercises in every Community in the Province. In the organization of such Provincial wide observances, we respectfully suggest that each local authority in the Province prepare to
